Commissioner of Slave Statistics Record, Frederick County, Maryland

Introduction

This book is an abbreviated transcription of the Slave Statistics Record of Frederick County, Maryland.¹ The original Record is a listing of about 50% of the slaves held in the County on November 1, 1864, and contains the name of the slave owner (and, if applicable, the name of their representative agent), the name of the slave, his or her age, sex, physical condition, time of servitude remaining, and, where appropriate, information on the slave's military service and compensation of the owner for that service.

On November 1, 1864 a new (the third) constitution² of Maryland came into effect. Article 24 of that document stated "That hereafter, in this State, there shall be neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except in punishment of crime, whereof the party shall have been duly convicted; and all persons held to service or labor as slaves, are hereby declared free." The effect of this act was to immediately free over 87,000 slaves throughout the state, with the consequence that former slave owners were deprived of chattel that, prior to that date, they had owned. This act was designed to lay a basis for a claim to the Federal Government to reimburse the State, and subsequently its owners of slaves, for that loss.

In 1867, the State General Assembly sought compensation from the Federal Government for the loss of personal property suffered by former slave owners in the state. They argued that in 1862 Congress had resolved that the government should compensate any state for losses incurred if the state should adopt a system of gradual abolishment of slavery. Further, Congress had made provision for enrolling able-bodied black volunteers into military service and awarding compensation to such loyal persons to whom such volunteers might owe service. Further, the new 1864 Maryland State Constitution had freed all slaves within the state, but the Federal Government had not compensated the state for that action. Having thus established what it saw as a just claim for Federal compensation to the state and its former slave owners, the Assembly proceeded to establish a system whereby evidence of such losses by slaveholders would be documented. The resultant act provided for the appointment of a Commissioner of Slave Statistics for each county in Maryland. The commissioner was to prepare a form whereby each slave owner could document the slaves that were in his or her possession on November 1, 1864. These forms were to be validated by sworn witnesses and submitted to the Commissioner. That information was then to be copied and indexed in a record book by the Commissioner, and when completed, the book and submitted forms were to be deposited with the Clerk of the Circuit Court of the respective county. This having been done, these documents would thusly be declared legal evidence concerning the ownership of slaves in the state at the time the Constitution was adopted and those slaves were emancipated.³

With the exception of compensation of $100 per enlistee for some (see notations in the Slave Statistics Record) slaves who served in the Union Army, the Federal Government never reimbursed the State or its slaveholders for their emancipated slaves. While the General Assembly's plea fell on deaf ears, the resultant documentation has left us with an important and extensive record of roughly 50% of the slaves held in Frederick County in 1864. The 1860 U.S. Census Slave Schedule records 3,243 slaves in the county, as compared with 1,671 listed by name in the Slave Statistics Record as of 1864. Clearly not all slave owners made the effort to file information on the slaves they owned.

In 1868, the Assembly restated the 1867 provision that Slave Commissioners be appointed, and gave them two additional years to perform their duties.⁴ This may explain the fact that the book has an alphabetized opening section (through p. 36), followed by more randomly alphabetized pages (ending with p.70). The former being from the initially submitted forms of slaveholders, and the remainder from submissions obtained in the later years of the program (presumably up to 1870).

At present, the Maryland State Archives (MSA) has Slave Statistics Record Books, under the heading "Commissioner of Slave Statistics" for the following counties: Anne Arundel, Carroll, Dorchester, Frederick, Howard, Kent, Montgomery, Prince George's, and St. Mary's. For some of these counties, e.g. Carroll, the original report forms filled out by the slaveholder are held by the MSA. For Frederick County, we are unaware if any of the original submission forms exist.

Historical Background

This section is not intended to be a comprehensive discussion of the laws of Maryland governing the institution of slavery. It is, instead, a brief summary of some of the more significant actions of the General Assembly of Maryland that established and regulated slavery and the process of manumission.

Slavery was recognized as a legal system in Maryland at least as early as 1664 when the General Assembly dictated that all blacks brought into the state were to be slaves for life and that the children of slaves were to be considered likewise.⁵ In 1783, the Assembly declared it to be illegal to import slaves into the state.⁶ It was, however, legal for a citizen who was moving into the state to bring previously owned slaves into the State provided they had been in the country for a period of at least three years.

Numerous laws were enacted throughout the 1700's and early 1800's to regulate the practice of the manumission of slaves. The General Assembly passed a law in 1752 preventing the freeing of slaves by last will and testament.⁷ While this law seemed mainly designed to prevent the freeing of elderly (50 years or older) or infirm slaves who would become a burden to society, one provision prevented the freeing of any slaves by a will containing a manumission clause.

In 1790, the General Assembly repealed the 1752 law and decreed that it was lawful to free a slave by a last will and testament.⁸ That law further stated that it was unlawful to transport out of the state any slave who previously had been granted freedom at some future date. Owners of superannuated or infirm slaves also were required by law to provide for the needs of those slaves.

In 1796 it was made legal to manumit slaves by will⁹ or deed,¹⁰ provided they were under the age of 45 and able to work and support themselves. And in 1810 Maryland clarified the status of the children of slaves who were born after the document had been written, but before the manumission had become effective; the children were to remain slaves for life unless otherwise stipulated in the document.¹¹

In 1805 the General Assembly passed laws regulating certificates of freedom.¹² The clerk of the local court had jurisdiction over the issuance of such certificates. The certificate was to contain the time, place and manner by which the individual became free, as well as a physical description of the individual, including the height, age, complexion, and any distinguishing marks. Further, the clerk was to keep a registry of each and every certificate issued. Any free Negro wishing to travel outside the county in which he or she was born was to obtain such a certificate of freedom.

In 1806, concerned with the growth of the free Negro population in the state, the General Assembly passed a law prohibiting free Negroes from immigrating into the state.¹³ Free Negroes violating this law would be fined, and if they did not pay the fine, could be sold for a period sufficient to pay the fine.

In 1817 the Assembly acted to strengthen earlier laws that prevented the unlawful transportation of free Negroes out of the state, making it a crime punishable by imprisonment.¹⁴

As the tide of war loomed on the horizon, there was in Maryland a great concern over problems that could arise due to the large and growing free Negro population. In 1860 the Assembly passed an act that mandated that all free Negroes appear and either give proof of sufficient funds to provide for their maintenance; otherwise they must hire themselves out to some responsible citizen. Failing to do so, they would be sold at public auction for a period of one year. This act applied to eleven counties in the State (Frederick County was not included). The law, however, required that before it became active, the law had to be approved by vote in the particular affected county, and this did not occur.¹⁵

In that same session, the General Assembly approved an act that banned the manumission of slaves by either deed or will.¹⁶ In 1864 this law was repealed.¹⁷

In 1867 the Assembly acted³ to establish the office of Commissioner of Slave Statistics in each county to make a record of all slaves owned within the state on November 1, 1864, the date when the new State Constitution² took effect and thereby freed all slaves in the State. And in 1868 the period required for completion of the Commissioners' work was extended to 1870.⁴

Population Distribution

In 1790, slaves constituted 32.2% of the population of Maryland, and only a comparative handful, 2.5%, of blacks were free. In the ensuing seventy years leading up to the Civil War, the slave population of the State decreased by 15.4% in absolute numbers, comprising only 12.6 % of the total inhabitants in 1860. Even given that decrease, over 87,000 individuals were held in the grip of slavery in Maryland on the eve of the War.

Over that same seventy-year period, the numbers of free Negroes increased by more than a factor of ten. In 1860, freedmen represented more than 12% of the total population. At that point there were nearly as many freedmen (83,942) as slaves (87,189) in the state.

Of the 21 counties plus Baltimore City in 1860, Frederick County ranked 13th in absolute numbers of slaves (7% of the county population), but 3rd in absolute numbers of freedmen (10.6% of the county population). The County also ranked 3rd in terms of overall population of the State.

As seen in the table below, in 1790 Frederick County, the proportion of the population held in slavery (11.8% of the county) accounted for 3.5% of all slaves in the State. Free Negroes comprised less than 1% of the County's inhabitants. Seventy years later in 1860, the number of slaves in the County had decreased by about 10% to comprise approximately 7% of the County inhabitants. At the same time, the numbers of free Negroes grew to the point that, on the eve of the War, 10.6% of the County residents were freedmen.

[It should be noted that the substantial dip in County population between 1830 and 1840 was due to the creation of Carroll County in 1837. Two election districts, Taneytown (Dist. 6) and Westminster (Dist. 7), of what had been Frederick County, were enumerated in the new neighboring county to the east.]

Within Frederick County, the distribution¹⁹ of slaves was far from evenly divided across the various election districts. Taken directly from the pages of the census, these figures differ slightly from those published as aggregate totals for the county. The differences are likely due to runaway slaves, manumissions, and races other than black or white.

* District percentages based on individual district population. Numbers differ slightly from County totals on the previous page due to varied counting of runaways, manumissions, and other races in Census summaries/compendia, as compared to the individual district reporting pages found in the Census. The latter were the source of the above numbers for the election districts.

These same data are displayed graphically as bars on the following district map of the county²⁰, with the height of the bars proportional to the number of individuals, red (dark gray) for slaves and green (light gray) for freedmen.

What can be seen clearly from the map is that the main concentration of both slaves and freedmen is in the southeastern half of the county, i.e., in those districts that lie south of a southwest to northeast line running through Frederick City and roughly bisecting the County. With the exception of moderate populations of freedmen in the Emmitsburg and Mechanicstown²¹ Districts, the half of the county north of that line had very few black inhabitants, free or slave.

Slave and Freedmen Surnames

The transition from the status of slave to free person required not only a legal document, but in most cases also an alteration of the individual's name. In order to be identified legally, a person needed to have both a first name and a surname. But slaves, as non-persons, generally only were given a first name. The Assembly never established a statutory requirement for such a process, and thus today we are faced with the difficulty of determining how a particular free Negro obtained his or her surname and, more importantly, what was it.

One common pattern was for the freedman to adopt (or be assigned) the surname of their former owner. Opinions differ on the extent to which this occurred. Some sources have found that the surnames of free Negroes were generally different than those of their former masters.²² In a study²³ of the manumission wills and deeds of Accomack County, this author has found that between thirty and forty percent of freed slaves are found later with the name of their former owner. And in the Free Negro Register²⁴ of that County, 62%, were registered under the same surname as that of their former owner.

The significance of this issue comes into play when one is attempting to trace the lineage of slaves who are identified only by a first name. How does one go about determining what their surname might have become once they were freed? Our best guess is that there is slightly less than a 50:50 chance that the surname would be the same as that of their former owner.

Military Service

In 1862, President Lincoln authorized the conscription by the states of 300,000 militiamen for the war effort. Maryland's quota was four regiments, 4,000 men, the equivalent of a brigade. The Militia Conscription Act of 1862²⁵ allowed for the enlistment of freedmen and granted freedom to any slave (and their family) who served and whose master was in rebellion against the Union. Congress replaced this act with a new Conscription Act, passed 3/3/1863, that did not refer specifically to blacks.²⁶ Lincoln's Emancipation Proclamation²⁷ had already declared slaves in rebellious regions to be free and able to serve in the Union Army effective 1/1/1863.

In the Slave Statistics Record (see Notes Table) there are 43 entries that record military service, 6 are listed as having been drafted, and the remainder presumably enlisted. For 19 of these individuals, the regiment in which they served is recorded. The majority served in the 39th U.S. Colored Infantry (USCI), a Maryland Regiment, though several enlisted in regiments from other states (PA, 3; MA, 3; and RI, 1). The 39th USCI is noted for its participation in the Siege of Petersburg, in particular the disastrous Battle of the Crater 7/30/1864. It should be noted that, while not investigated here, in general the Civil War muster records indicate when a soldier enlisted while still a slave.

The Main Slave Statistics Record Data Table.

The information in the main data table has been reorganized from its original order. It is clear from the original work that the Commissioner of Slave Statistics appointed for Frederick County, William H. Hilton, intended an alphabetically separated organization of the information. That is, all of the slaveholders with surname beginning with A, then all with B, etc. Within each alphabetical grouping, the surnames were not alphabetized. The ledger he chose, however, did not have sufficient space in the letter-tabbed section for all of the entries. Initially overflow from these pages was likewise alphabetically separated, but as data were collected over a number of years (possible as long as from 1867 to 1870) eventually information appears to have been entered more or less in the order received.

The data for this book initially were transcribed in the order in which they appeared in the original. Each line for an individual slave then was assigned an arbitrary number (# column) reflecting that original order.

This was done not only to enable indexing, but also to retain the order in which the slaves of a given owner were listed in the text. In some cases this order may reflect familial relationships, though often the slaves are simply listed in order of age, sometimes separated by sex. A column listing the page number (13 – 80) of the original Record is included to aid in locating items in the Maryland State Archive online document pdf files.²⁸

To make the main table more usable, and yet still retain some semblance of the original, the record for a given slaveholder has been alphabetized (not alphabetically separated) by the last and then first name of the owner. Within a given record, the original ordering of the individual slaves has been retained. The original Record had, in the front, an alphabetically separated index based on owner/representative surname. That list has not been transcribed here. As with the entries, that listing also repeated itself, likely due to late receipt of forms. Our reorganization of the data gives the reader a truly alphabetized organization using the actual owner's surname, not the name of a representative.

For many entries in the original, the name of the legal representative of the owner appeared first (particularly if the owner was deceased) and the Record was alphabetized by that person's name. Because the purpose of this book is primarily to enable searches based on either slave or owner names, we have placed the actual slave owner's name first and alphabetized the entries using that name.

All of the information for an individual slave, sex, age, time of service, physical condition, and military service has been included. To save space, notations about physical condition, military service, and compensation of the owner for this service have been moved to a separate Notes Table. A checkmark (✓) is placed in the "Note" column of the main table to indicate that additional information is listed in the Notes Table. For physical condition, one should assume "sound" unless noted as "unsound" in the Notes Table.

The name of the owner(s) and legal representatives (if noted) are included. The names of the witnesses of the official form submitted by the individual owner to the Commissioner have been omitted from this work. Given that photocopies of the original Record are available online at the Maryland State Archives website, the reader can readily obtain this information if it is deemed relevant.

Matters of Spelling and Handwriting

Spelling: It appears that the Commissioner of Slave Statistics transcribed the information from the forms submitted by slave owners without editorial correction. Thus it will be observed that spellings of common names vary considerable throughout the document: Ellen and Elen; Hannah and Hanner; Harriot, Harriett, and Harriott; Hilery, Hillary, Hillery (all exclusively males); Lauer, Laura; Mahaly, Maholy; Sarah, Serah; Sharlotte, Shorlott; and Soloman, Solomon. A number of slave first names have variant spellings that differ from the norm: Jinny (Ginny/Jenny), Loyd (Lloyd), Tarasa (Theresa), Eugene (Eugene), Wane (Wayne), Worner (Warner), and Wistley (Westley). Eighteenth Century writers often followed a "sounds like" guide, and were less concerned than those of today with accuracy and precision in spelling.

For those researching the slave roots of an individual, the Civil war can present a brickwall. The individual often can be found in the 1870 Census with a first and last name, but then disappears in earlier census records. One reasonable explanation could be that the person was a slave who was freed by the end of the War, or, in Maryland, by the 1864 State Constitution. The Slave Statistics Record is representative of the fact that most slaves had only a first name; of the 1671 entries, only 182 list a surname. For that reason a Slave First Name Index has been included. This Index has all of the entries alphabetized by slave first name, then slave last name, then slave owner last name. The last term is included based on the assumption that in about 50% of the cases, a slave adopted or was given his or her owner's surname upon emancipation. For slaves with a surname, the name would be read (left to right) in this Index as slave first name, slave last name. For those without a surname, a good guess would be to read (left to right) owner last name, slave first name. For example:

#	Pg.	Title	Owner-First	Owner-Last	Slave-First	Slave-Last	Age	Sex	Term	Note
100	14		Jacob (heirs Eliz. et al)	Berger	Henry	Cole	15	m
101	14		Jacob (heirs Eliz. et al)	Berger	Julia		8	f

Handwriting: It is expected that some readers will wish to consult the online pdf files of the original document. We found some names in the original to be difficult to read and open to various interpretations. Because Nineteenth Century handwriting can be difficult to those new to the field, a Sample Handwriting page containing examples of the capital letters has been included following the tables. It appears that all of the entries were made by the same person, presumably the Commissioner, William H. Hilton, and this makes transcription a bit easier. Some letters are almost impossible to distinguish, and perhaps this page will be of some assistance in that task. Another approach would be to consult the first set of index pages in the original, as these at least will show the variations in style of the capital letters from multiple, alphabetically separated examples.

All of the information for an individual slave, sex, age, time of service, physical condition, and military service has been included. To save space, notations about physical condition, military service, and compensation of the owner for this service have been moved to a separate Notes Table. A checkmark (✓) is placed in the “Note” column of the main table to indicate that additional information is listed in the Notes Table, which immediately follows the main table. For physical condition, one should assume “sound” unless noted as “unsound” in the Notes Table.

Slave First Name – Last Name Index

This Index has all of the entries alphabetized by slave first name, then slave last name, then slave owner last name. The last term is included based on the assumption that in about 50% of the cases, a slave adopted or was given his or her owner's surname upon emancipation. For slaves with a surname, the name would be read (left to right) in this Index as slave first name, slave last name. For those without a surname, a good guess would be to read (left to right) owner last name, slave first name.

And be it further Enacted, That it shall not be lawful for any Person or Persons within this Province, by any verbal Order, or by his, her, or their last Will and Testament, or by any other Instrument of Writing, in his, her, or their last Sickness, whereof he, she, or they shall die, to give or grant Freedom to any Slave or Slaves : And if any Person or Persons, after the Time aforesaid, shall, by any verbal Order, or by his, her, or their last Will and Testament, or by any other Writing or Instrument, in his, her, or their last Sickness whereof he, she, or they shall die, give Freedom to any Slave or Slaves, such Order, Will, or other Writing shall be void and of no Effect, so far as relates to such Freedom or Manumission only.

And be it likewise Enacted, That if any Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners for any Slave or Slaves, grown old and incapable of Labour, or otherwise disabled by Sickness or Accident, shall neglect to provide for such old or disabled Slave necessary Food and Cloathing, or shall suffer any Slave or Slaves whatsoever to depart from his, her, or their respective Habitation or Quarter, or to wander about begging, whereby such Slave or Slaves may become Burdensome to the Neighbourhood wherein they have resided, or others, it shall and may be lawful for the County Court where such Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners of such Slave or Slaves shall reside, upon Presentment of the Grand Jury, to issue their Warrant against such Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners of such Slave or Slaves, and to cause such Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners of such Slave or Slaves to appear before them; and if, upon Examination in a summary Way, it shall appear to such Court that such Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners of such Slave or Slaves did not provide necessary Food and Cloathing, or did suffer such Slave or Slaves to depart and wander, contrary to the Intent and Meaning of this Act, such Court is hereby directed and impowered to cause such Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners of such Slave or Slaves, to enter into Recognizance, in the Penalty of Four Pounds Current Money, to be taken to, and in the Name of the Right Honourable the Lord Proprietary for the Time being, and his Successors for the Use of such County; with Condition that such Master, Mistress, owner or Owners of such Slave or Slaves, his, her, or their Executors or Administrators, shall provide sufficient Food and Cloathing for such Slave or Slaves, during the Continuance of this Act; and not suffer such Slave or Slaves to depart or wander, contrary to the Intent and Meaning of this Act. Provided, That if any Slave or Slaves shall run away or abscond from the Service of his or her Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners, contrary to the Will of such Master, Mistress, Owner or Owners, such running away and absconding shall not be construed, deemed, or taken to be a departing and wandering within the Intent and Meaning of this Act. And to the End that hereafter there may be an uniform and regular Manner of granting Freedom to Slaves, Be it likewise Enacted, That where any Person or Persons, possessed of any Slave or Slaves within this Province, who are or shall be of healthy Constitutions, and sound in Mind and Body, capable by Labour to procure to him or them sufficient Food and Raiment, with other requisite, Necessaries of Life, and not exceeding fifty Years of Age; and such Person or Persons possessing such Slave or Slaves as aforesaid, and being willing and desirous to set free or manumit such Slave or Slaves, may, by writing under his, her, or their Hand and Seal, evidenced by two good and sufficient Witnesses at least, grant to such Slave or Slaves his, her, or their Freedom: And that any Deed or Writing, whereby Freedom shall be given or granted to any such Slave, which shall be intended to take Place in future, shall be good to all Intents, Constructions, and Purposes whatsoever, from the Time that such Freedom or Manumission is intended to commence by the said Deed or Writing, so that such Deed and Writing be not in Prejudice of Creditors, and that such Slave, at the Time such Freedom or Manumission shall take Place or commence, be not above the Age aforesaid, and be able to work, and gain a sufficient Livelihood and Maintenance, according to the true Intent and Meaning of this Act; which Instrument of Writing shall be acknowledged before one Justice of the Peace of the County wherein the Person or Persons granting such Freedom shall reside; which Justice shall Indorse, on the Back of such Instrument, the Time of the Acknowledgement, and the Party making the same; which he or they, or the Parties concerned shall cause to be entered among the Records of the County Court, where the Person or Persons granting such Freedom shall reside, within six Months after the Date of such Instrument of Writing: And the Clerk or Clerks of the respective County Courts within this Province shall, immediately upon the Receipt of such Instrument, Indorse the Time of his receiving the same, and shall well and truly enroll such Deed or Instrument in a good and sufficient Book in Folio, to be regularly Alphabetted in the Names of both Parties, and to remain in the Custody of the said Clerk or Clerks for the Time being, among the Records of the respective County Courts; and that the said Clerk or Clerks shall, on the Back of every such Instrument, in a full legible Hand, make an indorsement of such Inrollment, and also of the Folio of the Book in which the same shall be enrolled, and to such Indorsement set his Hand, the Person or Persons requiring such Entry, paying the usual and legal Fees for the same.

And be it likewise Enacted, That a Copy of such Record, duly attested under the Seal of such Office, shall, at all Times hereafter, be deemed, to all Intents and Purposes, good Evidence to prove such Freedom.

⁸ General Assembly of Maryland, Session Laws 1790, CHAP. IX. (passed 12/14/1790)

An ACT to repeal certain parts of an act, entitled, An act to prevent disabled and superannuated slaves being set free, or the manumission of slaves by any last will and testament, and of a supplementary act thereto, and for certain other purposes.

WHEREAS it is contrary to the principles of justice to prevent the manumission of slaves by last will and testament,

II. Be it enacted, by the General Assembly of Maryland, That all that part of an act, entitled, An act to prevent disabled and superannuated slaves being set free, or the manumission of slaves by any last will or testament, which is contained within the third section thereof, shall be and is hereby repealed.

III. And be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons, capable in law to make a valid will and testament, to grant freedom to, and effect the manumission of, any slave or slaves belonging to such person or persons, by his, her, or their last will and testament, and such manumission of any slave or slaves may be made to take effect at the death of the testator or testators, or at such other periods as may be limited in such last will and testament: Provided always, that no manumission hereafter to be made by last will and testament, shall be effectual to give freedom to any slave or slaves, if the same shall be in prejudice of creditors, nor unless the said slave or slaves shall be not exceeding the age of fifty years, and able to work and gain a sufficient maintenance and livelihood, at the time the freedom to be given by last will and testament shall be intended to commence.

IV. And, whereas it is contrary to the dictates of humanity and the principles of the christian religion to inflict personal penalties on children for the offences of their parents, Be it enacted, That all those parts of an act, entitled, An act relating to servants and slaves, and of another act, entitled, A supplementary act to the act, entitled, An act relating to servants and slaves, which impose a servitude to the age of thirty-one years on the issue of certain inordinate copulations mentioned in the twenty-sixth, twenty-seventh, and twenty-eighth sections of the said first mentioned act, and in the second and third sections of the said last mentioned act, shall be and they are hereby repealed: Provided always, that nothing in this act shall affect the right of any person or persons whatever to the servitude of any such issue heretofore acquired under the repealed parts of the acts aforesaid.

V. And be it enacted, That from and after the passing of this act, if any person or persons shall forcibly or fraudulently transport or carry, or cause to be transported or carried, out of this state, any free negro or mulatto, knowing such negro or mulatto to be free, every such person or persons shall forfeit and pay the sum of three hundred pounds current money for every negro or mulatto so transported or carried, or cause to be transported or carried; and if any person or persons shall transport or carry, or cause to be transported or carried, out of this state, any negro or mulatto entitled to freedom at a certain age, and sell or otherwise dispose of, or cause to be sold or otherwise dispose of, out of this state, such negro or mulatto as a slave for life, knowing such negro or mulatto to be entitled to freedom at a certain age, every such person or persons shall, for every such offence, forfeit and pay the sum of three hundred pounds current money.

VI. And, whereas it is just and reasonable that the faithful services of slaves should not be forgotten after they are grown old or incapable of labour, and humanity requires that such slaves, when grown old in service, or rendered infirm by accidents or misfortunes, should be still supported and maintained by their masters, mistresses or owners, Be it therefore further enacted, That if any master, mistress, owner or owners, of any slave or slaves grown old and incapable of labour, or otherwise disabled by sickness or accident, shall refuse or neglect to provide necessary and sufficient food, cloathing, covering or dwelling, for such or disabled slave or slaves, or shall suffer any such slave or slaves to depart from their respective habitation or quarter, and wander or remain at large, begging or becoming burthensome to the respective neighbourhoods, or to other persons, it shall be lawful for the justices of the county courts where the master, mistress, owner or owners, of such slave or slaves shall reside, and they are hereby required, upon the complaint or information of any credible person, (such complaint or information being supported by oath or affirmation,) to cause such complaint or information to be minuted among their proceedings, and thereupon to issue their warrant to the sheriff of their county against such master, mistress, owner or owners, of such slave or slaves, thereby to cause such master, mistress, owner or owners, to appear before them at some day to be limited in such warrant; and if, on a due examination in a summary way, the said justices shall be satisfied that such master, mistress owner or owners, of such slave or slaves, have not provided necessary and sufficient food, cloathing, covering or dwelling, for such slave or slaves, or have suffered such slave or slaves to depart and wander, or remain at large, contrary to the provisions and intentions of this act, the said justices are hereby empowered and required to cause such master, mistress, owner or owners, of such slave or slaves, to enter into a recognizance, with one sufficient surety, if the same shall be awarded, in the penalty of thirty pounds current money, to be taken to, and in the name of, this state; and the condition of the said recognizance shall be such, that if such master, mistress, owner or owners, of such slave or slaves, his, her, or their executors or administrators, shall not provide necessary and sufficient food, cloathing, covering and dwelling, for such slave or slaves, or shall suffer such slave or slaves to depart and wander, or remain at large, contrary to the provisions of the act of assembly in such cases made and provided, then such recognizance shall remain in force and virtue; and if any such master, mistress, owner or owners, of any such slave or slaves, shall afterwards commit any breach of the condition of such recognizance, it shall be lawful for any person to put in suit, and prosecute such recognizance against the cognizor or cognizors thereof, and if the master, mistress, owner or owners, bound by such recognizance, his, her, or their executors or administrators, shall be convicted of any of the breaches assigned by verdict, confession, or otherwise, the judgment of the court shall be rendered for the penalty and costs of suit, and the same may be recovered by any process of execution, and one third of the penalty shall be applied to the use of the prosecutor, and the remainder to the use of the poor of the county in which such conviction shall happen; and the person prosecuting such recognizance shall be endorsed upon the original writ, and be answerable for the fees and costs: Provided, that if any slave or slaves shall run away or abscond from the service of their master, mistress, owner or owners, contrary to the will of such master, mistress, owner or owners, such running away and absconding shall not be construed, deemed or taken, to be a departing and wandering, or remaining at large, within the meaning of this act.

⁹ General Assembly of Maryland, Session Laws 1796, CHAP. LXVII, Sect. XIII.

XIII. And be it enacted, That from and after the passage of this act, it shall and may be lawful for any person or persons, capable in law to make a valid will and testament, to grant freedom to, and effect the manumission of, any slave or slaves belonging to such person or persons, by his, her or their last will and testament, and such manumission of any slave or slaves may be made to take effect at the death of the testator or testators, or at such other periods as may be limited in such last will and testament; provided always, that no manumission hereafter to be made by last will and testament shall be effectual to give freedom to any slave or slaves, if the same shall be in prejudice of creditors, nor unless the said slave or slaves shall be under the age of forty-five years, and able to work and gain a sufficient maintenance and livelihood, at the time the freedom given shall commence.

¹⁰ General Assembly of Maryland, Session Laws 1796, CHAP. LXVII, Sect. XXIX

or their hand and seal, evidenced by two good and sufficient witnesses at least, grant to such slave or slaves his, her or their freedom; and that any deed or writing, whereby freedom shall be given or granted to any such slave, which shall be intended to take place in future, shall be good to all intents, constructions and purposes whatsoever, from the time that such freedom or manumission is intended to commence by the said deed or writing, so that such deed and writing be not in prejudice of creditors, and that such slave, at the time such freedom or manumission shall take place or commence, be not above the age aforesaid, and be able to work, and gain a sufficient livelihood and maintenance, according to the true intent and meaning of this act; which instrument of writing shall be acknowledged before one justice of the peace of the county wherein the person or persons granting such freedom shall reside, which justice shall endorse on the back of such instrument the time of the acknowledgment, and the party making the same, which he or they, or the parties concerned, shall cause to be entered among the records of the county court where the person or persons granting such freedom shall reside, within six months after the date of such instrument of writing; and the clerk of the respective county courts within this state shall, immediately upon the receipt of such instrument, endorse the time of his receiving the same, and shall well and truly enrol such deed or instrument in a good and sufficient book, in folio, to be regularly alphabetized in the names of both parties, and to remain in the custody of the said clerk for the time being among the records of the respective county courts; and that the said clerk shall, on the back of every such instrument, in a full legible hand, make an endorsement of such enrolment, and also of the folio of the book in which the same shall be enrolled, and to such endorsement set his hand, the person or persons requiring such entry paying the usual and legal fees for the same.

XXX. And be it enacted, That a copy of such record, duly attested under the seal of such office, shall at all times hereafter be deemed, to all intents and purposes, good evidence to prove such freedom.

WHEREAS the laws heretofore enacted for preventing the kidnapping of free negroes and mulattoes, and of transporting out of this state negroes and mulattoes entitled to their freedom after a term of years, have been found insufficient to restrain the commission of such crimes and misdemeanors; and it hath been found moreover, that servants and slaves have been seduced from the service of their masters and owners, and fraudulently removed out of this state; and that the children of free negroes and mulattoes have been kidnapped from their masters, protectors and parents, and transported to distant places, and sold as slaves for life; to prevent therefore such heinous offences, and to punish them when committed.

1. BE IT ENACTED, by the General Assembly of Maryland, That from and after the publication of this act, no person shall sell or dispose of any servant or slave, who is or may be entitled to freedom after a term of years, or after any particular time, or upon any contingency, knowing the said servant or slave to be entitled to freedom as aforesaid, to any person who shall not be at the time of such sale a bona fide resident of this state, and who has not been a resident therein for the space of at least one year next preceding such sale, or to any person whomsoever who shall be procured, engaged or employed, to purchase servants or slaves for any other person not being resident as aforesaid; and if any person claiming, possessing, or being entitled to such servant or slave, shall sell or dispose of him or her to any person who is not a resident as aforesaid, knowing that such person is not a resident as aforesaid, or to any person who shall be procured, engaged or employed, to purchase servants or slaves for any other person not being so resident, knowing the person so buying or receiving such servant or slave to be so procured, engaged or employed, or who shall sell or dispose of such servant or slave for a longer term of years, or for a longer time than he or she is bound to serve, every such person making any such sale or disposition contrary to the meaning and intention of this act, shall be liable to indictment in the county court of the county where such seller or sellers shall reside, or sale be made, and on conviction shall be sentenced to undergo confinement in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding two years, according to the discretion of the court; and such servant or slave who may have been sold contrary to the provisions of this act, to any person who is not a resident as aforesaid, or to any person who shall be procured, engaged or employed, to purchase servants or slaves for any other person not a resident as aforesaid, shall be sold by the order of the court for the time he or she may have to serve, for the benefit of the county where such conviction shall be had, or for the use of the mayor and city council of Baltimore if the conviction shall be had in Baltimore city court. Persons not residing in the state may be punished for purchasing such.

2. AND BE IT ENACTED, That if any person who is not a bona fide resident of this state, and who has not resided therein for the space of at least one year next preceding such purchase, shall purchase or receive on any contract any such servant or slave, who is or may be entitled to freedom as aforesaid, knowing that such servant or slave is entitled to freedom as aforesaid, or if any person whomsoever who shall be procured, engaged or employed, to purchase servants or slaves for any other person not being resident as aforesaid, shall purchase or receive on any contract any such servant or slave is entitled to freedom as aforesaid, with an intention to transport such servant or slave out of the state, every such person making any such purchase or contract, contrary to the meaning of this act, shall be liable to be indicted in any county court in this state where he may be found, and on conviction shall undergo confinement in the penitentiary for a term not exceeding two years, and such slave or slaves shall be sold by order of the court for the unexpired time of their servitude, for the use of the county in which such conviction shall be had, or for the use of the mayor and city council if such conviction shall be had in Baltimore city court; Provided nevertheless, that if any such person who shall have purchased or received such servant or slave, without knowing of his or her title to freedom after a term of years, or after any particular time, or upon any contingency, shall immediately after knowing thereof, give information on oath, or affirmation, to one of the justices of the peace of the county where the seller shall reside, or in the county where such person may reside, or the sale may have been made, of such sale and purchase, the person so purchasing or receiving shall not be liable to prosecution or the punishment as aforesaid.

3. AND BE IT ENACTED, That no sale of any servant or slave, who is or may be entitled to freedom after a term of years, or after any particular time, or upon any contingency, or in whom the seller is entitled for a term of years or limited time, with the reversion in some other person or persons, shall be valid and effectual in law to transfer any right or title in or to such servant or slave, unless the same be in writing, under the hands and seals of both the seller, or his or her authorised agent, and the purchaser, in which the period and terms of servitude or slavery, and the interest of the seller, and also the residence of the purchaser, shall be stated, and the same be acknowledged by said purchaser and seller, or his or her authorised agent, before a justice of the peace in the county where such sale shall be made, and recorded among the records of the county court of said county, within twenty days after such acknowledgment; and if any such sale should be made, and a bill of sale so as aforesaid should not be so executed, acknowledged and recorded, or in case the true time or condition of the slavery or servitude of such servant or slave, and the residence of such purchaser, should not be therein stated, then and in such case every such servant or slave, entitled to freedom after a term of years, or after any particular time, or on any contingency, shall be thereupon free, unless the court or jury who may decide upon the question in a trial, if a petition for freedom, under the foregoing provision, shall be of the opinion that no fraud was intended by the omission of any one of the requisites aforesaid; and in case any other person shall be entitled to a reversion or remainder in said slave, then the said servant or slave shall become the right and property of the said person entitled immediately to such reversion or remainder, in the same manner as if the event or time in which the reversion or remainder was to accrue had actually occurred, unless the court or jury who may decide upon the accrual of such remainder or reversion under the foregoing provision, shall be of the opinion that no fraud was intended by the omission of any one of the requisites aforesaid. How such sales are to be made.

4. AND BE IT ENACTED, That whenever any person shall purchase any slave or slaves within this state, for the purpose of exporting or removing the same beyond the limits of this state, it shall be their duty to take from the seller a bill of sale for said slave or slaves, in which the age and distinguishing marks, as nearly as may be, and the name of such slave or slaves, shall be inserted, and the same shall be acknowledged before some justice of the peace of the county where the sale shall be made, and lodged to be recorded in the office of the clerk of the said county, within twenty days, and the clerk shall immediately on the receipt thereof, actually record the same, and deliver a copy thereof, on demand, to the purchaser, with a certificate endorsed thereupon, under the seal of the county, of the same being duly recorded, on receiving the legal fees for so recording and authenticating the same.

5. AND BE IT ENACTED, That if any person who shall so have purchased any slave or slaves for exportation or removal from the state of Maryland, shall have the same in any county within this state, and information be lodged with any judge or justice of the peace, supported by oath or affirmation, that the deponent or affirmant has reasonable ground to believe that such person, who shall so have such slaves in his possession, is about to export and remove them from the state, contrary to law, it shall be the duty of such judge or justice of the peace to proceed to the house or place where such slaves may be, and such judge or justice is hereby empowered and required to enter into any such house or place where such slave or slaves may be, and to demand of the person or persons in whose custody the said slave or slaves may be, an inspection and examination of said slave or slaves, and also of the bills of sale for them respectively, and if upon such demand and examination no bill or bills of sale are produced for either or any such slave or slaves, or if the bills of sale produced shall not have been executed, acknowledged and recorded, agreeably to the provisions herein contained, or that the description of any such slave or slaves shall be, in the judgment of such judge or justice of the peace, false or fraudulent, then it shall be the duty of such judge or justice of the peace to cause such slave or slaves, for whom no bill of sale is produced, or for whom a false or fraudulent bill of sale is produced, to go before some judge or justice of the peace of the county aforesaid, and the person or persons who has or have said slave or slaves in possession shall also appear and enter into a recognizance before the same judge, or justice of the peace, with two sufficient securities in the sum of one thousand dollars, for every such servant or slave in his, her, or their possession, without bills of sale as is herein provided for, to appear at the next county court to answer to the petition of said slave or slaves; and if such judge or justices shall have reason to suspect that such slave or slaves have been stolen by such person or persons, or received by the knowing them to be stolen, or that they had knowingly aided therein, in such cases the recognizance shall provide for their answering such offence; and if such person or persons, so having such slave or slaves, shall refuse or neglect to enter into such recognizance, then such judge or justice of the peace shall commit said person or persons, and such slave or slaves, to the gaol of the county; and the said judge or justice of the peace shall make return of said commitment to the county court, or Baltimore city court if then in session, and if not in session then to the next term of said courts respectively; or if such person, having entered into such recognizance, shall refuse to appear agreeably thereto, or if having appeared it shall appear that such slave or slaves is or are entitled to freedom, then the court shall adjudge them free, and if said court shall adjudge them to be slaves for life, or for a term of years, and it shall appear that said slave or slaves shall have been purchased with intent to remove them from the state of Maryland, and no bill of sale for the same shall have been taken for such slave or slaves, or a false or fraudulent bill of sale, then the said court shall order such slave to be sold for

6. AND BE IT ENACTED, That hereafter when any servant or slave shall be committed to the gaol of any county in this state, as a runaway, agreeably to the laws now in force, and the notice required to be given by law by the sheriff shall have been given, and the time for their detention expired, and no person or persons shall have applied for and claimed said suspected runaway, and proved his, her, or their title to such suspected runaway, as is now required by law, it shall be the duty of the sheriff forthwith to carry such slave or slaves before some judge of the county court, or judge of the orphans court, with his commitment, and such judge is hereby required to examine and inquire, by such means as he may deem most advisable, whether such suspected runaway be a slave or not, and if he shall have reasonable grounds to believe that such suspected runaway is a slave, he may remand such suspected runaway to prison, to be confined for such further or additional time as he may judge right and proper; and if he shall have reason to believe that such suspected runaway is the slave of any particular person, he shall cause such notice to be given by the sheriff, to such supposed owner, as he may think most advisable, but if said judge shall not have reasonable ground to believe such suspected runaway to be a slave, he shall forthwith order such suspected runaway to be released; and if no person shall apply for such suspected runaway, after he may be so remanded, within the time for which he may be remanded, and prove his, her or their title as the law now requires, the said sheriff shall, at the expiration of such time, relieve and discharge such suspected runaway, and in either case when such suspected runaway shall be discharged, the expense of keeping such runaway in confinement shall be levied on the county as other county expenses are now levied.

7. AND BE IT ENACTED, That in all cases where jurisdiction, power and authority, are given by this act to the several county courts in this state, for matters arising in said counties, the same power and jurisdiction is hereby vested exclusively in Baltimore city court, for all matters arising in Baltimore county or city, and not in Baltimore county court.

Congressional Record. 37th Cong. 3d. Sess. Ch. 74, 75. 1863. March 3, 1863.

Whereas there now exist in the United States an insurrection and rebellion against the authority thereof, and it is, under the Constitution of the United States, the duty of the government to suppress insurrection and rebellion, to guarantee to each State a republican form of government, and to preserve the public tranquility; and whereas, for these high purposes, a military force is indispensable, to raise and support which all persons ought willingly to contribute; and whereas no service can be more praiseworthy and honorable than that which is rendered for the maintenance of the Constitution and Union, and the consequent preservation of free government: Therefore—

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all able-bodied male citizens of the United States, and persons of foreign birth who shall have declared on oath their intention to become citizens under and in pursuance of the laws thereof, between the ages of twenty and forty-five years, except as hereinafter excepted, are hereby declared to constitute the national forces, and shall be liable to perform military duty in the service of the United States when called out by the President for that purpose.

SEC. 13. And any person failing to report after due service of notice, as herein prescribed, without furnishing a substitute, or paying the required sum therefor, shall be deemed a deserter, and shall be arrested by the provost-marshal and sent to the nearest military post for trial by court-martial, unless, upon proper showing that he is not liable to do military duty, the board of enrolment shall relive him from the draft.

The Emancipation Proclamation

January 1, 1863

By the President of the United States of America:

A Proclamation.

Whereas, on the twenty-second day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-two, a proclamation was issued by the President of the United States, containing, among other things, the following, to wit:

"That on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any State or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be then, thenceforward, and forever free; and the Executive

Government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons, and will do no act or acts to repress such persons, or any of them, in any efforts they may make for their actual freedom.

"That the Executive will, on the first day of January aforesaid, by proclamation, designate the States and parts of States, if any, in which the people thereof, respectively, shall then be in rebellion against the United States; and the fact that any State, or the people thereof, shall on that day be, in good faith, represented in the Congress of the United States by members chosen thereto at elections wherein a majority of the qualified voters of such State shall have participated, shall, in the absence of strong countervailing testimony, be deemed conclusive evidence that such State, and the people thereof, are not then in rebellion against the United States."

Now, therefore I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, by virtue of the power in me vested as Commander-in-Chief, of the Army and Navy of the United States in time of actual armed rebellion against the authority and government of the United States, and as a fit and necessary war measure for suppressing said rebellion, do, on this first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and in accordance with my purpose so to do publicly proclaimed for the full period of one hundred days, from the day first above mentioned, order and designate as the States and parts of States wherein the people thereof respectively, are this day in rebellion against the United States, the following, to wit:

Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana, (except the Parishes of St. Bernard, Plaquemines, Jefferson, St. John, St. Charles, St. James Ascension, Assumption, Terrebonne, Lafourche, St. Mary, St. Martin, and Orleans, including the City of New Orleans) Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia, (except the forty-eight counties designated as West Virginia, and also the counties of Berkley, Accomac, Northampton, Elizabeth City, York, Princess Ann, and Norfolk, including the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth[]), and which excepted parts, are for the present, left precisely as if this proclamation were not issued.

And by virtue of the power, and for the purpose aforesaid, I do order and declare that all persons held as slaves within said designated States, and parts of States, are, and henceforward shall be free; and that the Executive government of the United States, including the military and naval authorities thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of said persons.

And I hereby enjoin upon the people so declared to be free to abstain from all violence, unless in necessary self-defence; and I recommend to them that, in all cases when allowed, they labor faithfully for reasonable wages.

And I further declare and make known, that such persons of suitable condition, will be received into the armed service of the United States to garrison forts, positions, stations, and other places, and to man vessels of all sorts in said service.

And upon this act, sincerely believed to be an act of justice, warranted by the Constitution, upon military necessity, I invoke the considerate judgment of mankind, and the gracious favor of Almighty God.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Endnotes

Done at the City of Washington, this first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty three, and of the Independence of the United States of America the eighty-seventh.

WILLIAM H. SEWARD, Secretary of State.
